Container Partitions Specification Sheet

Container partitions are designed for versatility, transforming standard units into tailored spaces. These can be divided into multiple compartments, providing secure, flexible, and practical solutions for needs, with single or combined uses in a single container.

Removable vs. Fixed Partitions

Removable partitions provide flexibility, allowing layouts to be reconfigured as storage needs change. They suit multi-purpose use but may offer less structural strength and security compared to fixed partitions.

Fixed partitions deliver maximum strength, durability, and security, making them ideal for permanent multi-compartment layouts. However, they lack flexibility, as the internal layout cannot be altered once installed.

Benefits & Applications

- Flexible options – partitions can be made from steel or plywood studs depending on requirements.
- Flexible design – partitions can be tailored in size, position, and number to match your operational needs.
- Enhanced security – each compartment can be fitted with individual lockable access for added control.
- Multi-purpose layouts – create separate spaces within one container, ideal for:
 - Self storage operators aiming to attract customers seeking smaller, affordable units.
 - Businesses needing to divide workspace for storage areas.
 - Clients utilising a single container for multiple purposes, reducing cost and footprint.

Additional Options

Enhance your container with insulation and moisture control, ramps, windows, doors, electrics and lighting. Add racking for organisation and padlock protectors and locks for security - creating a practical, customised, ready-to-use solution.
